April 30, 1948

Mr. Richard L. Davies, Assistant to the President Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing Company Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

Dear Mr. Davies:

The Munitions Board which was established by Public Law 253 - 80th Congress, is responsible under the direction of the Secretary of Defense for the coordination of the appropriate activities within the National Military Establishment dealing with procurement planning and for planning the military aspects of industrial mobilization.

The beard, composed of Mr. Thomas J. Hargrave, Civilian Chairman, the Under Secretaries of the Navy and Air Force, and the Assistant Secretary of the Army, has constituted an Industry Advistory Security Planning Task Committee on Determination of a Listing of Rated Resources in order to obtain the advice and assistance of industry in the matters referred to above, with special reference to the duties enumerated in paragraph 3 of attached order (Inclosure #1).

As it is believed that your knowledge and standing in private industry would contribute materially in the work of this Committee, it is requested you serve as a member.

Meetings will be held in Washington, D. C., at infrequent intertals with a representative of this Board, and the Committee will convene only to discuss definite problems. You will be informed as far in advance of the conference dates as is practicable and be furnished with a conference agenda.

There is also enclosed a list of proposed committee membership. It is expected that a meeting of the Committee will be held 15 May 1948 or soon thereafter, and members will be notified by a subsequent letter.

If you will kindly advise us at your earliest convenience whether you will be able to accept membership on this Committee, it will be greatly appreciated.

Sincerely yours,

CABLE ADDRESS PENNSALT

April 7, 1948

The Munitions Board Pentagon Eldg. Washington 25, D. C.

Attention: Colonel E. A. Lynn

Gentlemen:

In response to your request for recommendations of action to be taken to pretect the United States industrial establishment from immobilization by wrecking at a few critical points, at a time of military emergency, the following is proposed:

- 1. That a special task committee be appointed immediately to advise the Munitions Board of the few operations in the United States whose stoppage would be most effective in interrupting the manufacture and delivery of essential material to the Armed Services.
- 2. That with the advice of this committee the Munitions Board prepare immediately a tentative list of the few installations which are the most critical and notify the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Army Area Commanders, and the Divisions of the Munitions Board responsible for stockpiling, so that appropriate measures can be undertaken promptly to protect these installations and to protect against stoppage by stockpiling some of their output, or providing alternative installations.
- 3. That the Munitions Board correct and extend this list by requesting appropriate studies and reports by each of its presently constituted Industry Advisory Committee.

In accord with your request, I have attempted to select the individuels who would be most valuable in serving on the special task committee and after careful consideration I would recommend the following:

- 1. An Officer broadly familiar with Army material requirements.
- 2. An Officer broadly familiar with Navy material requirements.
- 3. An officer broadly familiar with Air Force material requirements.

Approved For Release 2003/03/28: CIA-RDP80R01731R000500010008-2

- 4. Richard L. Davies, Assistant to the President, Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing Gespany, Philadelphia, Pa., familiar with chemical, atomic energy, and related industries throughout the U.S. Has A.E.C. "Q" clearance.
- 5. Charles H. H. Welkel, Manager of Commercial Research and Industrial Development, Bethlehem Steel Corp., Bethlehem, Pa., familiar with steel and related industries throughout U.S.
- 6. Hugh Fields, Director of Research and Development Department, Atlantic Refining Company, Philadelphia, Pa., familiar with petroleum and related industries throughout U.S.
- 7. Simon Strauss, Director of Sales of American Smelting and Refining Co., New York, N.Y., familiar with non-ferrous metals and ores, and raw materials other than chemicals, steel, and petroleum, throughout U.S. Executive Vice President of Metals Peserve during war.
 - 8. A. T. Colwell, Vice President, Thompson Products Co., Cleveland, Ohio, familiar with automotive, air craft, and jet industries throughout U.S.
 - 9. D. C. Prince, Vice Fresident, General Electric Co., Schenectady, New York, familiar with electric equipment and power installations throughout U.S.
 - 10. C. B. Jolliffe, Vice President, RCA Laboratories, Princeton, New Jersey, familiar with electronic equipment and communications throughout U.S.
 - 11. R. C. Morse, Executive Vice President, Pennsylvania Railroad, Philadelphia, Pa., familiar with transportation facilities throughout U.S.

Before mcommending this list I have talked with all but two of the officials proposed and in the absence of Messrs. Colwell and Jolliffe I have talked with close associates of theirs. I am assured that they are all well equipped to serve on such a task committee and that they would be willing to serve and accept whatever security regulations the Munitions Board feels are appropriate.

Very truly yours,

Dear Admiral Hillenkoetter:

I was glad to get a report that the Admiral we discussed will be coming to Washington on Sunday. I thought it might be helpful to arrange a quiet luncheon or dinner at which he would talk with a few people like Mr. Justice Roberts, about the situation, so that they could speak more assuredly in any appeal for support of decisive actions, if they become necessary.

If you think this would be desirable, I would like to give such a luncheon or dinner in a private room of the Cosmos Club or one of the hotels, having, along with you, a few others whom you approved.

I thought it might be well to include Admiral Ingersoll and, since it would be purely a private affair, we could invite anyone we felt ought to have a clearer understanding of the general situation.

Looking forward to hearing from you, and with best regards, I remain

CABLE ADDRESS PENNSALT

Dear General Eisenhower:

As I told your Aids, here is what went out over the network Friday night. I also enclose copy of a letter to Governor Duff which I trust will lead to support from the several states.

I thought Mr. Byrnes' statement was excellent and that he was just the mam to make it.

Based on the reaction of the 1000 people whom I addressed here on Saturday, I am convinced that the right appeal at this time is one made on moral and religious grounds. What would you think of a plan of having leaders of the three great faiths join in a call for the United States to rise up as trustees of freedom, or, in the cass of the christian faiths, as trustees of christendom, - both of which are in existence today as the result of centuries of sacrifice, including the one about to be celebrated.

I have in mind that such a call might be made by Mr. Justice Roberts, who is the lay head of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States and General Bonovan, who is an active Catholic layman and Bernard Baruch, who is an active Jewish layman.

I would be grateful for any suggestions you make regarding this problem of awakening the people.

with regard to mobilising our friends in the industrial community. I thought you might wish to glance at the brief marked passages of a lecture I gave at the Industrial College of the Armed Forces in November. I believe the situation is still about the same as it was then, that is, that we would like to cooperate with the Armed Forces, but we cannot do very much until we are told what items would be needed in case of emergency.

I know you are supposed to be retired and are not supposed to have the responsibility for these problems now, but any suggestions for further action useful to the country at this time would be appreciated.

With high regards, I remain

BROADCAST OVER 150 STATIONS OF ABC METWORK - HEADLINE EDITION - 7:00 P.M. E.S.T. MARCH 12, 1948

We now present Mr. Richard L. Davies from the Foreign Policy Association who has just returned from visits with his friends in Western Surope.

AMMCR: Mr. Davies, in your recent visit to Europe did you find evidence of the "reign of terror" referred to by Secretary Marchall yesterday?

DAVIES: Yes, our friends in Europe are very uneasy. The unessiness stems from three things. First, the relentless march of the Russian political agents, backed by secret police and the military, enslaving the people, the homes and the hopes of one free country after another..... Second, the indications to them on every side that the Russian Atomic Weapon plants will be completed before the end of 1948..... And third, the impression that the United States will not act to stop these agressions and will not bring about effective international control of atomic weapon manufacture. before it is too late.

ARROR: You've been to Washington today, what position is our government taking on this?

DAVIES: The Government officials are committed to carry out the wishes of the American people but they are not sure what the wishes of the American people are.

In addition to government officials, I talked at length with our great soldier outside the Government, Dwight D. Bisenhover. I esked him for a professional appraisal of the effect of allowing these events to continue unchecked. He said that American security would be in dire danger, and that self-preservation then might cost us the way of life we value above all else I also talked with the great Chaplain of the Senate of the United States, the Reverend Peter Marshall, about the moral aspects of the problem. He said: "Seener or later a line must be drawn backed by the only thing this evil tide understands, that is.... military force in being." He said, "It is a negation of morel principles to allow evil to grow, and that it is wrong to compromise with wrong."

ANNCE: What do you propose the American people do now?

DAVIES: In the words of Secretary Marshall, I would urge that each of us consider calmly and prayerfully what should be done, and I would propose that we then send our suggestions to the President for his consideration, by telegraph, tonight.

CABLE ADDRESS PENNSALT

Merch 15, 1948

Dear John:

As you know. I tried to react you by telephone Friday afternoon, but was unable to and I. therefore, broadcast the attached over the network, which I thought would serve to strengthen the hand of the President regardless of what additional course you all decide upon.

For the same purpose of strengthening the Freedent's hand in the international crisis. I have sent the attached letter to Governor Duff, hoping that it will lead to wider support from the individual states.

Nr. Byrnes' appeal was magnificent and I believe he was the ideal man to make it.

Now, however, in view of the opposing statements which have been made, I would offer again to try to bring it about that a few strictly nonpartisen leaders, above politics, take a new initiative to call for the same things Mr. Byrnes asked for.

From the reaction of the 1000 people at the Foreign Policy Association meeting which I addressed here Saturday, I believe the successful appeal for assembling our forces immediately will be one made on moral and religious grounds. I believe such an appeal is valid, justified, and authentic. I would propose that it be made by three outstanding laymen of the three great faiths of America, such as Mr. Justice Roberts, who is the lay head of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States, William Donovah, who is an active Catholic layman, and Bernard Baruch, who is an active Jewish Layman.

I would be grateful if you would communicate the substance of this letter to the President and assure him again that I am at the service of his office.

Cordially.

PERSONAL AND CONFIDENTIAL

Dear Governor Daff:

I have just returned from Europe and have been having conversations with officials in Washington about the emergency which confronts us.

Your address last night at the Bulletin Forum was excellent. As our Ambassadors and Field Commanders in Europe are now reporting, the alternatives before us are to prepare to abandon the areas of Western Europe which were liberated in the recent invasion, or to assemble within the next few months the maximum possible Maval, Air, and Army force in being. Using the new Western Europe organisation as a reseptacle and aid for this force and combining it with the most skillful diplemacy and use of the device of ultimatums, there appears to be a possibility that Western Europe can be held.

Without the assembly of this force within the next few months such a possibility is not apparent.

You will note in the attached letter to Mr. Justice Roberts, description of a method of bringing about such mobilisation in the face of the political difficulties before England and the United States. The method is to have the initiative taken by leaders outside the present governments.

The problem has been to find someone of sufficient capability to lead such action in this emergency. It is clear from your address that you are the man to do it.

It is particularly appropriate that the impetus for this decisive action of assembling our military power immediately come from the individual states.

In the name of the security of the United States I respectfully ask that you communicate immediately to each of the governors of the other 47 states the situation which you have described so accurately and forcefully in your address, and that you ask each of the other governors to join in making possible the immediate assembly of military force, without which the lives of those who liberated Europe, will be wasted.
